JVS GALA
Raising skills, jobs and careers to new heights
Leading with Heart

Nearly 15 years ago, JVS and CVS Health joined forces to create a unique partnership that would provide the residents of the Greater Boston area with the training needed to be successful in the workplace.

On April 28, 2008, the CVS/JVS Boston Regional Learning Center was officially opened under the leadership of Jerry Rubin. It was clear to everyone in attendance that day that this partnership would soon evolve into a great friendship.

Today, the bond between our two organizations are as strong as ever. Our friendship is equally as strong. We are better today because of our partnership with JVS Boston and because of Jerry’s leadership.

Jerry, as you retire, all of us at CVS Health wish you the very best. We are so proud to have stood with you for the last 15 years. We will continue to stand with you and JVS Boston for years to come.
On behalf of the JVS Board of Directors and staff, we want to thank you for joining us tonight. We proudly come together to recognize the accomplishments of our students and clients, celebrate our valued partners and dedicated staff, and affirm the importance of providing opportunity for all.

Tonight, we honor valued longtime JVS supporters, Campe and Amanda Goodman. Campe is Senior Vice President and Fixed Income Portfolio Manager at Wellington Management Company LLP, where he manages diversified fixed income portfolios for institutional clients. Campe has been an active JVS board member since 2008 and served as JVS Board Chair from 2016-2018. Amanda is an educator, specializing in early childhood education. She has taught Kindergarten and first grade at Park School, Pre-K at Charlestown Nursery School and serves on the Board of the John Winthrop School for Young Children. Amanda is a two-time fellowship recipient in early childhood education from the Yale Child Study Center and received her AB in Sociology (‘06) and M.Ed in Child Development (‘09) from Harvard.

We also honor John Pepper for his support of education and workforce development in Boston. John is the co-founder and Chief Worker Advocate of Boloco, a New England-based restaurant chain founded in 1997, focused on serving globally-inspired burritos, bowls and beverages. He also co-founded B.Good which grew to 80 units before he and his partners sold it in 2017. John graduated from Dartmouth College in 1991 and received his MBA from the Tuck School in 1997 (where he presented the first Boloco business plan). John was elected to the Selectboard of Norwich, VT in 2017 and was Chairman from 2018-2020.

And finally, we will be celebrating the career and accomplishments of Jerry Rubin. Jerry has served as President and CEO of JVS Boston since 2007. In his 15th year, we celebrate his legacy as a leader and innovator in workforce development. His tenure has been marked by visionary leadership that set JVS on the path to becoming the largest and most effective workforce training organization in New England.

With your support, JVS is able to serve thousands of individuals every year, empowering each person to build their skills, find meaningful employment, and achieve economic independence. Thank you for supporting the work we do and helping us ELEVATE individuals and their families as we support them in the development of their skills, jobs and careers.

Sincerely,

JVS first partnered with CVS 15 years ago. Since that time our country, as well as our clients have experienced tremendous change. JVS has been fortunate to have CVS Health as a partner along the way. We have shared in successes and weathered challenges together.

Thousands of clients have benefited from CVS’s WITC (Workforce Innovation and Talent Center formerly known as The Regional Learning Center), located within JVS, and the knowledge and generosity of their wonderful staff. Clients have trained as CVS Retail Store Associates and Pharmacy Technicians. JVS’s Skills Department, Disability Services Department, and others have partnered with CVS Health to provide the training to our clients to ensure a successful career once hired.

In Disability Services alone, 243 clients (and counting) have enrolled in JVS’s CVS Retail Industry Training with a 96% completion rate. More than 60% of those clients have earned and begun paid jobs post-training, for many their first job.

In our Pharmacy Technician Training Program, the unique relationship with employer partners has, in many ways, been the key to success for the students’ careers. CVS, at the forefront of those relationships, has played a major role since the program’s inception in 2013. Acting as the advising body while building the program, CVS continues to support JVS in many ways including providing live pharmacy sites where students can apply classroom lessons in a fast-paced pharmacy, participating in student orientations during the first two weeks of training, scheduling workshops to speak about career paths and opportunities available to pharmacy technicians beyond the pharmacy, and acting as the first professional pharmacy reference for the students.

It’s a partnership built on shared values and collaboration that is mutually beneficial, with JVS clients always the top priority.

CAMPE & AMANDA GOODMAN is Senior Vice President and Fixed Income Portfolio Manager at Wellington Management Company LLP. Campe has been an active board member of Jewish Vocational Service (JVS) since 2008 and served as JVS Board Chair from 2016-18. A past recipient of the CJP Young Leadership Award, Campe has held a number of volunteer roles with Combined Jewish Philanthropies (CJP), including a term as Chair of the 2006-07 Annual Campaign for the Young Leadership Division and co-leadership of CJP’s 2008 Summer Mission to Israel for young professionals. He has served on the board of Jewish Community Relations Council’s (JCRC) and helped found their Reach Out! service initiative for young adults. Amanda is an educator, specializing in early childhood education. She has taught Kindergarten and first grade at Park School, Pre-K at Charlestown Nursery School School and serves on the Board of the John Winthrop School for Young Children. Amanda is a two-time fellowship recipient in early childhood education from the Yale Child Study Center and received her AB in Sociology (’06) and M.Ed in Child Development (’09) from Harvard.

is the co-founder and Chief Worker Advocate of Boloco. Pepper’s main focus has always been on fulfilling Boloco’s mission statement: to positively impact the lives and futures of our people through bold and inspired food and practices. An hourly job at Boloco offers health, dental, and transportation benefits, and English lessons and leadership development courses!

John was the winner of the 2012 Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year for New England and was named one of the Top 24 Executives in the restaurant business by Fast Casual Magazine in 2017. He has been an angel investor since 2014, with investments in more than 30 start-ups focused on workforce-empowering technology, restaurant-facing technology, and a few special consumer businesses like Athletic Brewing, Spindrift, Free Rain, and Starbird.

is the President and Chief Executive Officer of JVS. Jerry’s tenure has been marked by visionary leadership that set JVS on our path to becoming the largest and most effective workforce training organization in New England.

Over the course of his 15 years at JVS, Jerry has established JVS as a national leader in workforce development with a reputation for delivering cutting-edge services that provide thousands of people with opportunities for a better life.

Jerry is a board member of the Economic Empowerment Trust Fund of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the Hyde Square Task Force, and MIRA. Jerry is also a member of the 2019 Class of Barr Fellows.

In her home country of El Salvador, Angela Bersabe Pacheco worked as a psychology professor and a therapist for abused children. In May 2017, when things became too dangerous, she and her family immigrated to the United States as refugees, hoping for a better life.

Like many other refugees, Angela was referred to JVS to find employment support and English language classes. Angela’s first job was in retail and customer service. After a year Angela returned to JVS and enrolled in the JVS Nurse’s Aide Training Program. She successfully completed the program and worked as a Certified Nursing Assistant for two years.

Yearning for a more stable schedule that would allow her to spend more time with her children, Angela decided to switch careers. In 2020, she returned to JVS and enrolled in the Early Childhood Education Program. With her background working with children, Angela knew that this transition would be more aligned with her interests. Today she is happily working with two- and three-year-olds as a Toddler Teacher with the Early Education Program at YMCA.
Frantzted Chamblain completed the JVS Nurse’s Aide Training Program in November 2019. Shortly thereafter, he passed the state certification exam to become a Licensed Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA). By March 2020, he was at the center of the COVID-19 pandemic at Boston Medical Center (BMC). For Frantzted and many other front-line workers, now was the time to show compassion and empathy. As he noted, “Even though it’s risky now, I love what I am doing”. This mentality and work ethic earned Frantzted a nomination for CNA of the Pandemic Period at BMC.

Ruth Mbambali first came to JVS to improve her English. Following that, Ruth worked in several customer service jobs for four years before returning to JVS to enroll in the Animal Care Technician Program. Despite several efforts to dissuade Ruth from becoming an animal care technician, she enrolled in the training and was hired right after graduating from the program. Today, Ruth greatly enjoys working as an animal care technician at Boston Children's Hospital and she hopes she continue growing in this field.

Janepher Musakuwona moved to the U.S. in 2019, seeking asylum. She was struggling to settle into her new life in the U.S. Being in a new country with an entirely new culture left Janepher with a lot of unanswered questions on how to get training for a better job. Then, at the right time in her life, a member of Janepher's church recommended JVS to her; and the rest is history! Janepher enrolled in the JVS Nurse’s Aide Training Program. She excelled in this program and was even selected to be one of the student speakers at the graduation ceremony. Following graduation, she was hired at Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center (BIDMC) as a Patient Care Technician. Janepher’s long-term goal is to become a nurse.
Afrina Parvin joined JVS after working in the food service industry for seven years. She took classes at JVS in the hopes of enrolling in skills training to secure a better career for herself. After graduation, Afrina was hired at Boston Children’s Hospital (BCH) as an animal care technician. Within three months, Afrina was asked to train new employees. She considers this training opportunity one of the most rewarding parts of her job. She also highly recommends this career path for anybody who is patient and has a love of animals. Afrina has been working as an animal care technician for two years now.
JPMorgan Chase is proud to support JVS and shares their commitment to helping job seekers better prepare for, and acquire the jobs of today and tomorrow.
